

Location: Auckland | Height: 165 cm

Hair Colour: Brown | Eye Colour: Brown | Ethnicity: Persian

Farangees Seddiqi is a Persian-New Zealander actor with a striking authenticity and an ability to bring layered, emotionally rich performances. Conversational in Farsi and Dari, she offers a rare cultural depth and understanding of both Eastern and Western narratives, for roles that require sensitivity, precision, and truth.

Raised as the youngest of five sisters in a refugee family, Farangees brings a lived experience that informs her work with emotional intelligence and an instinctive understanding of resilience, identity, and the human condition. She is deeply committed to telling stories of Persian women and underrepresented voices, approaching every role with intention and creative integrity.

Her foundation as a performer began early, with years of experience as a lead soloist at national events and extensive training in singing, public speaking, and dance. With hip-hop and African dance training, combined with a fine arts background, she has a strong physical presence and a sharp visual sense that translates effortlessly into her craft as an actor.

Farangees' background as an occupational therapist adds another layer to her craft, giving her insight into the psychology and physicality of character work. She approaches each performance with focus, preparation, and a drive to deliver authentic and compelling storytelling.

Farangees is an actor with a distinctive voice, cultural fluency, and a natural command of emotional range, ready to bring something truthful and memorable to her work.

THEATRE

2025 Chekov in the Church Role: Nina [lead] Pitt Street Theatre -

Director: Juliet Furness

2025 Return to Waimaunka

Role: Red [lead] Pitt Street Theatre Director: Keith Paterson
Producer: Keith Paterson

TRAINING

2025 Performing Arts Classes Tutor: Juliet Furness

SKILLS

Accents American, English - RP

Dance Hip Hop » Beginner

Other Modelling, Painting, Photography

Singing Alto

Sports Badminton, Hockey, Netball, Rock Climbing, Tennis, Touch Rugby, Weights

