

IANA GRACE

Location: Auckland | Height: 170 cm

Eye Colour: Brown | Hair Colour: Brown | Ethnicity: European | Ethnicity: Mixed Ethnicity | Ethnicity: Pacific Islander | Ethnicity: Samoan

Passionate, popular and truly potent, Iana Grace is all about sisters doing it for themselves. This girl's got gumption and isn't afraid to speak out on behalf of those silently struggling, especially in the mental health arena. It's hardly a surprise then that her childhood hero is Jupiter from Sailor Moon, part of the mah shojo world whose characters value female friendship, confidence, strength, and independence. Somewhat conversely, it's a very femme world, one ripe with cosplay opportunities for short pastel skirts, big eyes and even bigger pigtails, things Iana unapologetically enjoys. But, spend any time with her and it's clear there's room in her life for the domestic and cute as well as being a bad ass. She grew up believing she could have it all and her talent and determination have meant she really has got it all. It's a great message and her followers respond enthusiastically to it - you can be both - be brave, bold and beautiful. What's more, you can do it on your own terms, Prince Charming can stay home.

While it's her turn as a troubled teen on New Zealand's most popular TV show that has people still stopping her on the street for autographs, it's theatre that fills Iana's cup. But watch any of her online content and it won't take long to spot her other passions at play. She's all food, family and fur babies. Iana loves food, but don't expect to buy her recipe book any time soon. Her love for food is about talking and experiencing it, preferably by eating, a lot. Or rather, eating a lot of plant-based food. This animal lover puts her conviction where her mouth is and she's been vegan for a good quarter of her life. Put a cat in her lap and she'll likely curl up with it.

She loves the opportunity to travel home to Samoa to visit family, but Iana admits she feels most at home in the city. The noise and movement of people keeps her energised. She's always needed the hustle and crush of heartfelt conversation and now she's making a life out of bringing those conversations to life for thousands.
