

NEPIA TAKUIRA-MITA

Location: Auckland

Nepia Takiura-Mita is one of Aotearoa’s most exciting and influential multi-platform entertainers. Spanning television, digital media, live performance, and cultural advocacy, his work consistently resonates with audiences across sectors. Known for his authenticity and on-screen presence, Nepia is a trusted face for media campaigns, brand activations, and PR-led initiatives.

He is a familiar name to television audiences, having played ‘Hemi’ for six seasons on the groundbreaking bilingual drama Ahikāroa, and now featuring as a core cast member on Shortland Street. With his ongoing screen visibility and rising profile, Nepia is a strong choice for entertainment media coverage, ambassador roles, and collaborative partnerships that call for both reach and relevance.

Beyond traditional broadcast, Nepia’s influence is growing rapidly online. His social content—ranging from high-energy dance videos to comedic sketches—has attracted brand collaborations with names like Universal Music, while a standout live career moment saw him perform alongside Keith Urban in Australia. His digital engagement is consistently high, positioning him as a powerful voice for influencer marketing and branded storytelling.

Fluent in Te Reo Māori and passionate about kaupapa Māori narratives, Nepia continues to champion language revitalisation through projects such as Te Reo Rangatira. His ability to weave cultural purpose into commercial settings makes him a compelling partner for organisations seeking genuine representation and impact.

As one half of the viral duo Come Vibe With Us with Harrison Keefe, Nepia’s online reach has expanded internationally. Their unchoreographed garage dance sessions have evolved into a global movement of joy, connection, and representation—amplifying his platform as not just a performer, but a cultural connector.

Nepia Takiura-Mita brings energy, integrity, and talent to every platform he steps onto—and his star is only getting brighter.
